Two Men Held in Madison County are Suspects in 1956 Burglary at Eldorado

About Town

And Country

By TIMOTHEUS T.

I HAVE HEARD considerable discussion on just what is the law on motorists stopping for school buses. So I have gone to the pamphlet, Rules of the Road, compiled by Charles F. Carpentier, secretary of state, to get the law.

This is what is said about approaching, overtaking or passing school buses:

"Illinois law demands that the driver of any vehicle must stop on meeting or overtaking any plainly marked school bus which has stopped for the purpose of receiving or discharging children."

"This also applies to drivers of vehicles approaching a school bus. No driver may pass a school bus while children are alighting or boarding it."

"This requirement to stop—under Illinois law—applies even where the stopped school bus is on the other side of a wide highway, or where a parkway separates the opposing lanes of traffic."

"The driver of any vehicle approaching or overtaking a school bus which has stopped to pick up or discharge children, after coming to a complete stop should not proceed until the school bus has resumed motion."

SOUTHEASTERN LIGHT, publication of the Southeastern Illinois Electric co-operative, carries an article titled "Last Word in Country Living," which tells of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Youngs three miles south of Harrisburg.

This six-room house is made of light red beauty stone with a white roof and the article points out that the Youngs have almost every electrical appliance in their home. In fact they have an electrical unit that heats the house in the winter and air-conditions it in the summer.

The article is illustrated by four photos, one of the house, one of Mrs. Youngs in her kitchen, the third of the heating and air-conditioning unit and the fourth of the spacious living room.

The Youngs, who operate a shoe repair shop in Harrisburg, moved into their new home in September.

SEVERAL YEARS AGO Delta Theta Tau sorority bought a resuscitator and turned it over to the Harrisburg fire department, where it would be in readiness for use.

It has been used a number of times.

This apparatus contains two tanks of oxygen, which can be administered to persons. Just recently the sorority bought two extra tanks for oxygen at a cost of $22, which will augment the equipment that has been on hand.

These extra tanks might save a life one of these days.

Nelson Eveland of Collinsville and Ernest Abbott of Madison Arrested

Two men held by the sheriff of Madison county at Edwardsville are suspects in the burglary June 23, 1956, of the NuWay Mercantile Co. at Eldorado, where $1,000 was stolen when the safe was blown up and approximately $800 in merchandise was taken.

Held are Nelson Eveland, 45, of Collinsville, and Ernest Abbott, 48, of Madison, both of whom have records, the Saline county sheriff's department here stated.

The two were arrested Dec. 9, by Wood River city police when officers there noticed the license number of the auto in which they were riding showed it was one wanted in a burglary in Knox county, Illinois, six months ago. Both men were armed when arrested, it was learned.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Donelson made the trip to Edwardsville yesterday and took with him a key to a briefcase that was stolen from the Minerva Oil Co. offices at the time of the NuWay burglary. The key fit a briefcase that had been taken from the two men.

The key is the big link at present to the Saline county burglary. When the NuWay was burglarized, entry was made by wading across a roof to the Minerva offices on the second floor above the NuWay and sawing a hole in the floor so that they could descend into the store.

There the safe was blasted open and a substance that flew through the store was identified by the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation at Springfield as soap used to deaden the sound of the blast.

Besides the $1,000 taken from the safe, 19 suits, 40 pairs of pants, five sport coats, two suitcases, 17 belts, six pairs of shoes, and 15 cartons of cigarettes were taken. At the time Sheriff William T. Barrett said that the job had to be done by professional safecrackers.

Donelson made the trip after Deputy Sheriff Jeff Stricklin, reading FBI bulletins, came upon one telling of the arrest of the two men and of the items found in the 1947 black Cadillac they were driving. When he saw a briefcase and a box containing several balls of soap were included, he figured that they might be the NuWay burglars.

Donelson took with him the key that he secured from Gill Montgomery of Minerva. The key fit the briefcase. When Donelson went back in the cell to question the men about the Eldorado incident, they refused to talk to him.

To Send Hold Warrant

Donelson said that among the items found in their car were all kinds of tools and drills, keys, pry bars, copper wire, blasting caps, nitroglycerine and the soap and briefcase.

They are scheduled to be tried in Madison county court this month on charges of possession of burglary tools and possession of nitroglycerine with intent to commit burglary. They had a quart of nitroglycerine, Donelson stated.

Officers here said there was one other item that might link the two to the Eldorado burglary. Found in the Minerva offices when the burglary was discovered was a book of matches that advertised a tavern near Madison, Ill., the area where the two lived.

Donelson said that the state's attorney at Edwardsville wanted Saline county to send a hold warrant for the two men, which will be done. He said the men are wanted in Missouri as well as Knox county.

Donelson was told that Eveland is a parole violator, that he had been sent to the penitentiary upon conviction of forty counts of burglary.

Cornick Oil Co. Opens New Office Here; Has Coast-to-Coast Operation

The Cornick Oil Co., which started right here in Harrisburg and has expanded to a coast-to-coast operation, has set up a new office in Harrisburg.

They are in Room 40 of the Rose building and the office manager is Mrs. W. A. Hamby.

Previously the local offices were at the Cornick station on Route 45 in the east part of town.

Head of the Cornick Enterprises, which has headquarters at 41 East Washington street, Indianapolis, is Harold Cornick, well-known in this city.

Mr. Cornick was born in Chicago but moved to Harrisburg at an early age. With limited resources he established himself in business in the city of Harrisburg when still in his teens.

As he accumulated, he became interested in the gasoline business, starting the original Cornick station at its present site on Route 45 here. He gradually increased his operations to several stations in Illinois and Kentucky.

until 1951 but was curtailed somewhat by illness. But his illness failed to discourage Mr. Cornick, who had faith in his business, which continued to grow.

In the spring of 1953 he moved his general offices to Indianapolis but retained his southern operational office at 700 East Church street. He has continued to expand in the gasoline business, now being commonly known from coast to coast as an influence on the gasoline market.

Besides his gasoline station operations, Cornick Enterprises owns two oil manufacturing plants, at Terre Haute, Ind., and at Bakersfield, Calif., where motor oil is blended and canned.

Vice president of Cornick Enterprises is LeRoy Kielhorn, Harrisburg native who is in town at present in connection with the setting up of the new office. Joe Foster of Harrisburg is resident agent and William Bardos of Harrisburg, who formerly managed a Cornick station in Ohio, is now managing the Harrisburg station.

The business continued to grow

Morey Petitions For Permit to Sell Hodge Hotel

Also Asks Court To Allow Sale of Stock, Three Autos

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Lloyd Morey Thursday asked Circuit Court approval here for the sale of a Florida apartment hotel, three automobiles and 160 shares of stock formerly owned by ex-State Auditor Orville Hodge.

Morey, acting as trustee, asked the court to allow him to sell the plush Fort Lauderdale apartment hotel for $550,000.

All items involved were turned over to the state by Hodge and his wife, Margaret, as partial restitution for funds Hodge looted from the state while he was state auditor.

The Florida hotel is among properties Mrs. Hodge has sought to regain on grounds that it was not purchased with stolen state money. The suit still is pending.

Morey's suit states that five shares of stock in the Debra Investment Co., which lists the Esquire Hotel as its chief asset, were turned over by Hodge and his wife. The five shares make up all the outstanding stock in the Florida corporation.

Morey's petition said the hotel had been appraised twice, once for $530,000 and once for $510,000. The petition also said two public auctions have failed to bring the minimum price of $550,000.

Bid Expires Soon

The $550,000 bid, made by the Michigan Typewriting Co., will expire Feb. 9, and Morey said there was "not much likelihood of obtaining a better offer."

In his petition, Morey also asked court approval on the sale of two automobiles and a station wagon, once owned by Hodge, which are now suffering depreciation according to Morey.

The three vehicles, which received a top bid of $7,210, are now being stored in a Chicago garage at state expense.

Morey also asked permission to sell 160 shares of common stock in the Paramount Fire Insurance Co.

The petition asked the court to grant Morey right to sell various other items and give clear title to the prospective buyers.

If the hotel is sold, a sales commission of $27,500 will be due a firm handling the transaction for Michigan Typewriting Co.

Morey, in his role as trustee, also has to verify a claim by Mrs. Hodge that $27,339 worth of furnishings in the hotel's penthouse rightfully belong to her.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The wives disagreed today with an opinion of Mrs. Charles E. Wilson that many Cabinet heads want to go home.

Mrs. Wilson defended her husband, the secretary of defense, against President Eisenhower Thursday when she said Mr. Eisenhower's statement on Wilson's remark about the National Guard was "uncalled for."

The President said the secretary of defense made "a very unwise statement" in saying that the National Guard had been a haven for draft dodgers during the Korean War.

"I know I shouldn't say anything," Mrs. Wilson said. "I'll just get him in more hot water."

"I think you need a little pat on the back once in a while. Mr. Wilson has been trying to do a good job and I think he has done a good job," she said.

"I think the President should have stood back of Mr. Wilson instead of spending his time commenting on how wonderful Foster was."

Actress Elizabeth Taylor, Producer To Wed Saturday

A CAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Screen star Elizabeth Taylor and producer Mike Todd went into virtual seclusion today at the seaside estate of ex-President Miguel Aleman where they will be married Saturday.

The actress and the 54-year-old producer moved from their seaside villa here to Aleman's swank estate at nearby Puerto Marques Thursday shortly after Miss Taylor learned belatedly a court in Mexico City had granted her a divorce from British actor Michael Wilding.

Miss Taylor, who will be 25 on Feb. 27, and Todd had sent lawyers into four Mexican states, including the federal district of Mexico City, after judges in Guerrero and Morelos states refused to grant a decree.

They were advised Thursday the decree was granted by court in Mexico City Thursday.

Eldorado Couple Injured in Auto Accident

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Landers of Eldorado are patients in a hospital at Pontiac, Ill., receiving treatment for injuries received in an automobile accident Thursday morning.

They were en route to Eldorado for a visit from St. Charles, where they are employed by the state at the St. Charles School for Boys.

Relatives in Eldorado were informed of the accident, but details were not available. However, it was reported the Landers automobile and another car were involved in a head-on collision.

Mrs. Landers is reported to have suffered a brain concussion, broken arm and other injuries, but is not considered critical. Mr. Landers' injuries were confined to broken ribs.

Floods Spread Death and Misery Over Seven States; Virginia in Disaster Area

By United Press

President Eisenhower today declared a flood disaster in a third state—Virginia. Four other states were suffering from ravages of the mid-winter floods.

Parts of Kentucky and West Virginia were designated a disaster area Thursday.

The President declared an emergency in six southwestern Virginia counties that are part of a broad, seven-state area where the floods have spread death, misery and destruction.

The death toll in the floodlands rose to 13 and the homeless numbered high in the thousands.

An eighth state, South Carolina, received a warning of "moderate" flooding upstream on the Saluda, Broad and Catawba rivers.

The broadening flood belt reached Chattanooga, Tenn. this morning forcing some evacuations. In western North Carolina, evacuation alerts were cancelled at mid-morning for low-lying towns when streams that had gushed out of their banks during the night began falling.

Seven States Hit

The Tennessee River, key stream of the vast Tennessee Valley Authority, sloshed over into lowland areas at Chattanooga.

A city relief crew evacuated a family of nine from low ground near Chattanooga. The National Guard sent three amphibious trucks and 200 litters from Nashville. The Red Cross and some 100 volunteer National Guardsmen stood by in anticipation of a possible flood crisis.

By this morning, the flood area in the regions of the Appalachian, Cumberland and Great Smoky Mountains affected parts of Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, national president of the American Red Cross, flies to Lexington, Ky., today to begin an inspection tour of the flood area.

Five Airmen, Two Children Killed; 71 are Injured

Transport Falls Apart After Collision With Jet

PACOMA, Calif. (AP)—Late parents and congressmen demanded today an end to test flights over congested areas because a collision in air sent a luxury transport ripping through a school playground, killing five airmen and two children.

More than 50 boys were playing kickball Thursday when suddenly a $1,950,000 Douglas DC7B ploughed through the playground after colliding nearly 25,000 feet above with a F80D Scorpion jet interceptor.

One boy was killed instantly and another died within minutes of the crash that also brought death to the transport's crew of four and the pilot of the jet.

At least 71 children were injured in the crash. Of this number, 23 still were hospitalized this morning.

San Fernando Valley hospitals treated more than 40 youngsters and others were treated at the scene for minor cuts and shock and released to their parents.

Others of the injured were taken care of by personal physicians, including a 6-year-old boy who was struck by flying debris while playing in front of his house and a man who suffered minor injuries at a church which was hit by a piece of one of the falling planes.

One Crewmember Survives

A radarman in the jet plane managed to bail out shortly before the twin-engine $990,000 interceptor crashed into a hillside six miles away from the school.

The big transport began falling apart after the collision as it streaked directly toward the Pacoima Junior high school and the adjacent Terra Bella Elementary school. The crippled plane struck the playground as terrified children attempted to flee to safety.

"I saw kids lying on the ground, crying and screaming," said pa-

Our Schools Need Help

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT
During his 1956 campaign President Eisenhower promised that if re-elected he would try to speed up federal aid to education to make up for the failure of Congress to enact such legislation last year.

His newly presented school program is an effort to honor that pledge.

He has put the proposal on a four-year basis instead of five and is asking that the government spend $2,220,000,000 in that period to help states and local school districts build new schools and additional classrooms.

Customarily the shortage is expressed in terms of numbers of rooms, but this had a cold, impersonal sound. The President chose instead to cast it in human terms: Right now we have 2,220,000 children more than there is room for in our schools.

If these children did not get a chance to attend any school at any time, their painfully underprivileged status educationally would solely be brought to the country's attention in striking ways. Their parents would be beating on congressional doors as if they were tom-toms.

As it happens, the impact of the "overflow" is not brought to bear sharply on these 2,220,000 children while the rest go along normally. Somehow, under often disgraceful conditions, cramped space is made available for all children of school age.

Thus the effect of the shortage is spread far more widely—if somewhat less drastically—than if the overflow group was simply deprived of school altogether.

And, as the President and all the school experts have pointed out, the situation can only become increasingly critical in the years ahead if nothing is done. In the next five years, for example, six million additional children of school will be heading for classrooms.

Unless the Congress of the United States and the people whom it represents are prepared to meet this genuine emergency they will soon stand convicted of not caring whether the young people of America get an adequate education or not.

It has always been true that inadequate schooling can deprive an individual of happiness, of the ability to make his way in life, of the chance to live to his fullest capacities.

Now there can be even greater consequences.

A young American's freedom and safety are at stake. For this is an age when there is a premium upon knowledge. Those who do not have it or do not apply it may run the risk of losing the competitive test against hostile tyrannies abroad.

But, beyond our need for scientists and engineers to keep pace with potential enemies, we were never in greater need of citizens with a balanced grasp of the political, economic and social world about them.

The danger that we may not fill this need is the emergency Mr. Eisenhower has now brought before Congress. Its course is plain.

Stassen's Post Mortem

It has been a long time since Harold Stassen has had any status in this country as a political expert. Most of his Republican colleagues no longer take him seriously in this field.

Probably he did not add to his position when he said recently that Vice President Nixon's presence on the 1956 GOP ticket cost the Republicans control of both houses of Congress.

Stassen said that if former Massachusetts Gov. Christian Herter had been on the slate it would have helped more state and local tickets to victory.

Most politicians will look upon this as foolish talk, largely because it is idle opinion. It can neither be proved nor disproved, and it involves many variables which for all practical purposes render it useless.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Oil Works In Peculiar Ways To Influence Both Congress And The State Department; Anthony Eden Was Twice Defeated By American Oil Companies; King Saud's Visit Wrapped Up In Major U. S. Policy.

WASHINGTON. — There is one major thread running through the warp and woof of American policy for the Near East as it affects the following rather remarkable events in and out of Congress today:

1. The manner in which Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas rammed the Eisenhower Doctrine through the House of Representatives under a gag rule forbidding amendment. Regardless of the merits of the Eisenhower Doctrine—and it has some—it should have been open to full debate and amendment. The man who prevented this was Rayburn. Joe Martin, the man supposed to promote the Ike Doctrine, was lukewarm. Rayburn, who doesn't like Ike, was dictatorial and demanding that the House support him.

2. The fact that Sen. Lyndon Johnson, also of Texas, also supposed to be against Eisenhower, also demands that the Eisenhower Doctrine be passed soon.

3. The fact that President Eisenhower is welcoming King Saud of oil-rich Saudi Arabia here just after he has refused to meet with the prime ministers of England and France; and that he took the rather unpopular step of greeting the king at the airport personally—the only time he has thus greeted any foreign visitor.

4. The manner in which the Eisenhower administration dropped criminal charges in the huge antitrust suit started against the oil industry by the Truman administration, and has dragged out the civil suit.

5. The interminable delay in the Justice Department's case against the Arabian-American oil group for overcharging the U. S. Navy to the tune of $67,000,000. These are the same companies which support King Saud of Arabia.

6. The loans, economic aid, and shipments of arms to Saudi Arabia at the expense of the American taxpayer.

"PROTECT OIL"
All of the above, some of them geographically unrelated, actually are woven together into the cardinal American policy, both foreign and domestic, which can be summarized in two words: "Protect oil."

Critics also describe it as: "Kowtow to oil." In some cases their description is quite accurate. For the State Department and the Texas leaders of Congress have gone to amazing lengths not merely to protect oil, but to give the oil industry all kinds of bonanzas the ordinary citizen, company, and taxpayer do not get.

When powerful Sam Rayburn cracks the whip over the House of Representatives to put through the Eisenhower Doctrine without free debate or any amendment, it partly means that Texas oil friends have spoken. And when Sam refuses to permit any Congressman who opposes the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance to speak, it definitely means that the Texas oil lobby has spoken. The Texas oil lobby can put Sam out of Congress any time it desires, merely by redirecting his 4th District and infiltrating it with Republicans from Dallas. The lobbyists do not have to speak too loud.

NUDGING THE STATE DEPARTMENT

The hand of the oil companies is not always so apparent in nudging the elbow of the State Department. Sometimes it is—as when the Washington lobbyist for Aramco gave air-cooling equipment to Loy Henderson, the State Department official in charge of the Near East—a gift similar to the deep freeze deal for which Gen. Harry Vaughan got panned so deservedly and so unmercifully.

But, on the whole, you don't see the hand of the oil companies guiding major foreign policy. Nevertheless, it's there—skillfully, emphatically, vigorously there. It influences both war and peace. It guides the question of loans and gifts. It affects the money the average taxpayer has to put up when he fills out his tax returns.

Take two vital examples: In 1953 when Mussolini started to invade Ethiopia in what the diplomats recognized as a prelude to World War II, the League of Nations took a courageous stand that might have stopped war, not merely in Ethiopia but the world war to follow.

Led by Anthony Eden and with the unofficial but potent backing of Franklin Roosevelt, the league voted economic sanctions against Italy. This meant cutting off all exports to Italy and refusal to receive all imports.

The one key product in these sanctions was oil. Without oil Mussolini's navy could not move. Without gasoline his airplanes could not fly. His invasion could have been stopped overnight.

EDEN SLAPPED DOWN
The British and American oil companies could have stopped it. But they didn't. They decided that profits were more important than peace. They bucked the League of Nations.

And the State Department, which has nearly always taken its cue from the oil companies whether Democrats or Republicans be in power, bowed to the oil companies. The American navy was not used to stop the shipment of their oil to Mussolini.

He got away with his trial war. The dictators in Germany and Japan watched the breakup of the world's peace machinery. Later they followed the example of Mussolini.

Six months ago, somewhat the same thing happened—in reverse. This time the oil companies wanted to stop a war over Suez. This time the same Anthony Eden was involved. This time he was on the fighting end, not the pacific end. But again he got slapped down.

This time the oil companies did not want any fighting over Suez because the transit of their oil through the canal was involved and because their pipelines across Arab countries were in jeopardy. So again they cracked the whip. Again Anthony Eden felt the full lash of that whip—in a defeat that ended his career.

The public thought that he was defeated by his health, by British politics, and by Eisenhower's refusal to see him. All true, part. But the main motivating factor, more important than any of these, was the whin-cracking of the oil companies on American policy.

The story of how this happened and how the visit of King Saud is one byproduct will be told in another column.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

There is a great deal of suffering, sorrow and hunger in the world today. This hardship does not result from famine, crop failure or "natural causes." It results from human sin, hatred, the destruction of property, and murder of people which follow naturally.

Behind the development of this social cancer of dry rot of character is the denial of God. It is easy for people in Christian nations to criticize glaring sin in other nations, but we must all remember that one rotten apple can spoil the whole barrel.

If we in America allow hatred and selfishness to grow, our nation can become evil and corrupt. We must all be alert to God's will and to the daily application of His principles in our thought and action.

"APPEARANCES ARE DECEPTIVE."

That good things come in small packages is particularly true of medicines. It is amazing how often a serious illness is relieved, almost like magic, within a few hours.

When the new hormones and antibiotics were first released many people were dismayed that some of them cost as much as 50c each. They soon learned that not only were they saving more lives, but people got well so much quicker that medicines-per-illness now cost less than before.

We, of course, price all prescriptions as low as operational costs permit.

Birthday Party Given By American War Dads Auxiliary

A birthday party was held by the American War Dads Auxiliary Chapter 59 on Tuesday evening for five members who had birthdays in December and January and a tea towel shower for each. This is a monthly affair but due to the Christmas holidays no party was held in December.

The committee in charge of entertainment under the direction of Mrs. Clyde Knight, chairman, was well prepared with amusing games and stunts in which all members participated and enjoyed an evening of fun.

An informal report was given by the president and chaplain who attended the State Council meeting in Springfield last week, on the work being done by other chapters in veterans security and hospitals and the need of several hundred pair of scuffies, the cloth slippers worn by wheel chair patients, as reported by the hospital chairman of the Danville chapter of the Auxiliary was discussed and plans were made to make several dozen pair and send them to the Danville chapter to distribute to the hospital.

Those having birthdays were Mrs. Charles Feunquay, Mrs. Albert Hathaway, Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. Cleo Flynn and Mrs. L. F. Bolerjack.

At the close of the evening refreshments of cherry pie, ice cream and coffee were served.

Friendship Class Meets With Mrs. Roby Ferrell

Mrs. Roby Ferrell was hostess Thursday evening to the Friendship class of the Dorrisville Baptist church. The meeting opened with the song "Take My Life and Let It Be" followed with prayer by Mrs. Irene Dees and Mrs. Alta Sherrod.

Roll call was answered with scripture verses. The devotion was given by Mrs. Callie Cantrell who told how Jesus called his first disciples and how he taught his followers.

The reading of the minutes and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Reba Vaughn. A love offering was taken for Mrs. Eunice Reynolds who has been seriously ill for some time and a short prayer service was planned for today in her home.

Entertainment was by Mrs. Mary Glass. Refreshments of date pudding, candy hearts, Cokes and coffee were served to those mentioned and to Callie Taylor and Rose McIlraith.

Mrs. Gladys Williams Hostess to Past Matrons Club of Galatia O.E.S.

Members of the Galatia O.E.S. Past Matrons club met at the home of Mrs. Gladys Williams recently.

After the business session entertainment was furnished by Mrs. Roberta Boyett and Mrs. Lois Wathen. Prizes were won by Mrs. Blanche Horn and Mrs. Velma Griggs.

Those present were Mrs. Myrtle Ryan, Mrs. Roberta Boyett, Mrs. Blanche Horn, Mrs. Lois Wathen, Mrs. Pearl Webber, Mrs. Bertha Ryan, Mrs. Velma Griggs and the hostess, Mrs. Gladys Williams.

The evening was enjoyed by all present.

Big Ridge Home Bureau Holds January Meeting

The Big Ridge Home Bureau unit held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. Oral Walls Friday.

After a brief business meeting and announcements by the home adviser, the minor lesson, "Posture," was given by Mrs. Walls. Mrs. Mary Harper presented the major lesson, "Dollars for Your Family Clothing."

After recreation under the direction of the recreation chairman, Mrs. Arthur Wintzler, refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Ben Wintzler, Mrs. C. M. Hine, Mrs. Marion Fox, Mrs. Clarence Muge, Mrs. J. W. Wintzler, Mrs. James Cummins, Mrs. Arthur Wintzler, Mrs. Mary Harper and the hostess, Mrs. Oral Walls.

Ledford Baptist Golden Circle Bible Class Meets

The Golden Circle Bible class of the Ledford Baptist church met Jan. 28 at the home of Hazel Recker.

Opening song was "Footsteps of Jesus" followed with prayer by Marie Price.

A most interesting devotion was given by Hallie Waltz who took her scripture from Matthew 5:1-13. Dismissal prayer was by the class teacher, Verna Lynch.

Also present was Lora Stubbe, president.

Mrs. George Myers and her son, George Myers Jr., and two sisters, Mrs. Bertha Butler of Harrisburg and Miss Loda Tucker of Carmi, visited this week with her brother, Raymond Tucker, and children in Gary, Ind., and also visited with their sister-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Tucker, who is in the Michael Reese hospital in Chicago. They returned last night.

Mrs. Grace Davis, widow of Charles Davis, suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Wednesday and was moved Thursday to the Ferrell hospital, Eldorado. Her condition was reported a little better today. She is the former Grace Brown of Harrisburg, sister of Mrs. Cyrus Steinsultz and Mrs. Jessie Wiley. She has operated a news agency in Ridgway since the death of Mr. Davis.

Contributions to Grimes Family Total $20,000

CHICAGO (U.P.)—The Back of the Yards Neighborhood Council announced today that more than $20,000 has been contributed to the family of the slain Grimes sisters. Joseph Meegan, executive secretary of the council, said more than 2,500 letters of sympathy have been received by Mrs. Loretta Grimes, most of them containing money.

He said the letters came from "all over the country." Meegan said the council is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer or slayers of Barbara Grimes, 15, and Patricia, 13.

The council also is issuing a circular to 15,000 families in the community. Capt. John J. McCarthy of the Brighton Park police district said five extra squads and 10 police women have been assigned to check out any leads developed from the circulars.

Mrs. Grimes, haggard and drawn, told a news conference at the Back of the Yards offices that she wants to thank all who have sent their sympathy.

The $7,800 mortgage on her modest bungalow will be paid off, Meegan said, and an anonymous interior decorator has offered to decorate the entire house.

P.S.—SHE ALSO SINGS—Blonde screen bombshell Mamie Van Doren sings for the first time in her new picture "Untamed Youth." But her vocalizing is apt to have less impact on audiences than her torrid rock-'n'-roll number. Candid shots above give you an idea.

Classifieds List Many Talents

This didn't happen in Harrisburg but it was a classified ad that some idled men might want to read about.

In Jackson, Wyo., during an enforced vacation four men sought temporary employment. Among talents listed were: Party catering (both sides of the bar); baby sitting (with young single females); companionship (adept at either side of an argument); financial advice (of which they said they'd had lots); also snow shoveling, ditch digging and house cleaning—any sort of menial labor that no one else will do, "which we will do better."

If you don't believe classified advertising pays, why did you read this?

SIDELIGHTS:

Girl Withdraws Complaint Against Grandma

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (U.P.)—Juvenile officer Jack Fahlstadt refused to make an arrest Thursday on grounds his office doesn't handle grandmas.

A 4-year-old girl named Lindy demanded over the phone, "I want you to put my grandma in jail. She's trying to make me take a nap and I don't want to."

Fahlstadt explained, however, "We do handle little girls who don't mind their grandmas." The complaint was withdrawn.

BELOIT, Wis. (U.P.)—A telephone operator thought complaints about service were getting worse all the time Thursday when she said, "Number please," and got nothing but growls.

Line repairmen discovered the trouble. Dewey Brewer's dog had tipped the receiver off the cradle and was growling into the mouthpiece.

ZWINGLE, Iowa (U.P.)—When the fire department refused to go to the fire, Norman Fulmer had to take the fire to the department. Fulmer called the fire station Thursday and said his truck was on fire. The firemen said they could not help him because he was outside the city limits. Fulmer got back in the burning truck and drove it to fire headquarters.

Births

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waddell of the birth of a baby girl to Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Puckett of Wenatchee, Wash. The baby was born Jan. 26, weighing nine pounds, one and a half ounces, and was named Susan Lynn. Mrs. Puckett is the former Helen Waddell. The Pucketts have one other girl, Paula Jo.

Hospital Notes

Harrisburg Hospital
Admitted:
Mrs. Joe Dudley, RFD 3, Harrisburg.

George O. Moore, conservation education adviser for the state of Missouri, said bluegill (bream) which weigh less than two ounces "are the best tasting fish to be had."

TWO FEATURES AT GRAND — Mari Blanchard and John Ericson are shown in a scene from "The Cruel Tower," which will be shown at the Grand theatre tonight and Saturday. "Gun Brothers" with Buster Crabbe and Ann Robinson, also will be shown on the double feature program.

Woman Who Recalled Seeing Lincoln Often Dies At Age of 101

HARPER, Iowa (U.P.)—Mrs. Henry Heininger, who recalled seeing Abraham Lincoln often when she worked in an Illinois hotel, died at the home of a daughter Thursday at the age of 101.

Mrs. Heininger, born near Metamora, Ill., Nov. 24, 1855, had lived here with her daughter, Mrs. John Besser, for the past nine years. She had been bed-ridden for the past three years.

Mrs. Heininger, the former Jen-nne Heimgmann, is survived by her daughter, a son and 22 grandchildren. Her husband, a funeral director at Metamora for many years, died in 1946.

Budget Director Says Tax Cut Still Years Away

WASHINGTON — Budget Director Percival F. Brundage believes a tax cut still may be three to five years away.

Brundage also said he fears that government expenses will continue rising, despite efforts to reduce them. But unlike Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, he foresaw no economic recession if expenses are not cut.

Humphrey has predicted a "hair curling depression" eventually if federal expenses do not come down.

The House Appropriations Committee today made public Brundage's view which he gave it in recent testimony.

Brundage estimated that the national debt of about $270 billion could be paid off in 59 years if the same sum were poured into interest and principal each year as is being set aside for this purpose in President Eisenhower's $71.8 billion budget for the next fiscal year.

Brundage said he thought a tax cut might be possible in 1959, provided the budget rose no further and if the economy continued to expand. But he said he is afraid the budget is going up.

House Group Cuts $26 Million from Drought Aid Plan

WASHINGTON — The House Appropriations Committee today slashed $26 million from the administration's proposed $76 million emergency aid program for farmers and ranchers in the drought-ridden Great Plains states.

The congressmen said in an official report that $20 million of the amount they cut is not needed now. They said President Eisenhower can get it later if it is still needed.

The President's $76 million program, based on findings during his recent tour of the drought region, called for immediate soil conservation programs and for rushing feed grains to the stricken area.

Agriculture Department officials had said some of the money would not be used until later this summer or fall. But they asked that all the money be provided now in an urgent efficiency bill.

The House Agriculture Committee Thursday approved a bill to spend $25 million to $30 million annually on a soil bank for ranchers in drought areas.

Ranchers would be paid $1 to $1.25 for each acre of land they took out of use. Some 25 million acres of land could be set aside under the program.

Heroism of Four Boys Fails to Save Life of Pilot

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. — The heroism of four teen-aged boys failed to save the life of an airman in a jet plane crash that killed two men here Thursday night.

The doomed flier ordered the boys away from the burning F94B Starfire jet fighter, shouting "Get away from me . . . I know I'm going to die."

Authorities determined this morning that the flier who ordered the boys away from the plane was the pilot, Lt. Martin D. Bullard of Minetto, N. Y.

The crash killed two New York Air National Guardsmen. Their two-seater plane crashed a mile short of the runway here.

Four boys ran to the scene and worked feverishly to remove one of the men trapped in the wreckage with his clothing afire. They retreated only when he ordered them away only moments before the plane exploded.

The other crewman's body was found about 20 yards from the plane.

Strike Ends at Missile Base

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. — Hundreds of employees returned to their jobs today at the nation's top-secret guided missile base to end a two-day strike.

Their demand for a vote on union affiliation remained unsettled but 600 of some 900 union workers involved decided to return to work if their employer took "no reprisal action."

Navy Awards Contracts For Three More A-Powered Submarines

NATO Chief Says Nuclear Weapons Will Not Reduce Need for Troop Strength

PARIS — Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of Allied powers in Europe (SHAPE), said in an exclusive interview released today NATO's new nuclear weapons will not enable the West to reduce its spending on conventional arms.

The U. S. Army general told United Press in the interview the North Atlantic Treaty Organization should maintain large numbers of troops regardless of the new nuclear weapons in NATO's arsenal.

The possibility of replacing fighting men with atomic weapons was discussed by NATO member governments three years ago, he said. But manpower has now been reduced as much as possible, and any new troop reductions will only weaken the organization, he added.

"The basic foundation of the defense of the West," Norstad declared, "is the possession on our part of the ability to destroy the Soviets if they attack NATO territory, the will to use this ability to defend the people and territories of the NATO countries, and the knowledge on the part of the Soviets that we possess both of these factors."

"Having knowledge of the effectiveness of our forces and having complete confidence in our will to employ these forces in our own defense, I believe that a major war can and will be prevented," he said.

"Dependence upon important new weapons has had a tremendous effect upon our requirements for numbers of forces," the general said. "But I must emphasize that these reductions in requirements are already fully reflected in our present program."

King Saud Pledges He Will Stand With U. S. for Common Good

WASHINGTON — U. S. officials took heart today from King Saud's statement that he always will stand with America "in what is right and just and for the common good of humanity as a whole."

The visiting king of oil-rich Saudi Arabia made the pledge at a state dinner given in his honor Saturday night by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Saud, one of the Arab world's top leaders, and Dulles had conferred earlier in the day in the continuing effort to win Saud's support of the anti-Communist Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East.

President Eisenhower planned to meet with Saud again this afternoon in a final conference about the doctrine and other Middle East problems.

The king was scheduled to go to the White House after attending a Pentagon lunch given by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson and the nation's top military officers. The Pentagon planned to greet him with an honor guard and a 21-gun salute.

Dulles indirectly referred to the threat of Communism in the Middle East when he toasted Saud in orange juice at the brilliant state dinner at the Pan American Union Building.

The secretary said Saud came to America "at a time of crisis" when "turbulent waves" that have beat first upon one part of the world and then another "would seem to beat upon the Arab lands."

Saud said he is sure his visit would increase the bonds of this friendship between the two countries.

King Saud will spend Saturday inspecting the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. He will leave the Washington area Sunday for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where he is expected to spend a week before leaving the country.

Other officers re-elected Thursday night at the group's annual dinner meeting were: John I. Wright of Carbondale as vice president, and K. Neil Thurmond of Johnston City as secretary-treasurer.

Carl Taylor, business agent for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at West Frankfort, spoke of labor-management.

Miller said the organization now has 56 active members in southern Illinois.

Safety Council Reports 95,000 Killed in Accidents In '56; 40,000 in Traffic

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council today reported 95,000 Americans died in accidents last year, 40,000 of them victims of the nation's greatest killer—the motor vehicle.

The traffic toll was an increase of 4 per cent over the 1955 count of 38,426 and set a possible new record in highway carnage.

The council said the traffic death count put 1956 in "virtually a dead heat" with the all-time high of 39,969 set in 1941.

However, the organization said its 40,000 figure cannot be called a new record because later reports will revise the estimate and the final total may be greater or less than estimated.

In addition to the heavy death toll, traffic accidents resulted in about 1,400,000 non-fatal injuries in 1956 and caused damages estimated at $1,850,000,000.

The injury rate in all accidents during the year was 9,540,000, and the cost was some $10,800,000,000.

Reducing the statistics still further, it meant that 1 out of every 18 persons in the United States suffered a disabling injury during 1956.

The economic cost included wage losses, medical expense, production delays, and equipment and property damage.

Home Mishaps High

Home accidents were the second biggest killer, claiming 27,500 lives, or 500 fewer than in 1955.

Eighteen states showed traffic fatality decreases from 1955 and 29 had increases. Rhode Island had the best record with a drop of 23 per cent in its highway toll.

Some states showing reductions were Michigan, 12 per cent; Illinois, 3; Nebraska, 1 and South Dakota, 1.

A total of 150 cities of 10,000 or more population chalked up fatality-free records, with Aurora, Ill., a city of 56,800, the largest city to boast a clean traffic mark. The second largest was Lafayette, Ind., and Fargo, N. D., was third.

Among cities over 200,000 showing reductions were St. Paul, Minn., with a 31 per cent decline, and Chicago, 8.

Protest Test Flights After Playground Crash

troldman Harry T. Kowalsky, who spoke to the scene. "It made me sick to my stomach."

Both planes were on test flights.

The transport was undergoing a final test prior to delivery to a major airline and the jet crew was testing the plane's radar equipment for Northrop Aircraft. Last Minute Message

The Douglas Aircraft Co. tower at nearby Santa Monica received the final radio message from the stricken transport. Co-pilot Archie Twitchell radioed seconds before he died the following:

"Midair collision . . . Midair collision . . . Ten How (referring to the aircraft's identification). We're going . . . Uncontrollable . . . Uncontrollable . . . Say good-bye to everybody."

Mothers of most of the 2,000 pupils attending the combined schools rushed to the scene, some dashing from injured to injured in an attempt to locate their children. Most of the children were in classrooms but the big plane narrowly missed an auditorium where 800 pupils had assembled.

Parents in Mass Protest

Angry parents here immediately launched a mass protest against test flights over populated areas. Mayor Norris Poulson of nearby Los Angeles made a direct appeal to President Eisenhower asking that such tests over populated areas be banned.

In Washington, California Republican Reps. Joe Holt and Edgar W. Hiestand demanded similar action pending examination of the regulations.

The Civil Aeronautics Board immediately dispatched its top investigators to inquire into the cause of the collision. The officials arrived late Thursday night from Washington and were working around-the-clock in an attempt to learn the cause.

Curtis A. Adams, 28, the lone survivor aboard the jet, suffered serious burns before he managed to get out of the flaming jet plane.

AFL-CIO Orders Unions to Kick Out Gangsters Without Trial

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The AFL-CIO today ordered its unions to kick out suspected gangsters or Communists without waiting for them to be brought to trial.

The announcement was one of the strongest pronouncements by the powerful labor group against racketeering in many years.

"A trade union need not wait upon a criminal conviction to bar from office corrupt, Communist or fascist influences," the leaders of 16 million American union workers said.

Guided By Principles

The responsibility "is not placed upon unions by law but by the AFL-CIO constitution and the moral principles that govern the trade union movement," the council said.

The labor group said those who support any totalitarian agency or those who are known to be racketeers shall not be permitted to hold membership in the AFL-CIO or its member unions.

The report was one of three approved by the AFL-CIO Executive Council. The reports, presented by the group's ethical practices committee, were aimed at cleaning up member unions.

Beck Absent

Notably missing from the 27-member council meeting when the reports were approved was Dave Beck, whose powerful Teamsters Union is a target of a Senate investigation of labor racketeering and mishandling of union funds.

The new codes also prohibit trade union officials from having "personal financial interest which conflicts with full performance" of his duties as a representative of the union workers.

It also gave the AFL-CIO power to "deal" with anyone suspected of accepting "kickbacks," under the table payments, or gifts.

The third report outlined an elaborate set of rules for protecting union health and welfare funds.

Church Council Suggests Program to End Segregation

NEW YORK — The National Council of Churches issued a program today by which local church groups can rid their congregations and communities of racial segregation.

In a race relations Sunday message designed to be read from the nation's pulpits Feb. 10, the federation of 30 American churches declared that Christians "must not rest until segregation is banished from every area of American life."

The suggested program of action drawn up by the council's department of racial and cultural relations suggested that churches secure facts, discuss and formulate concrete proposals for constructive action on public school integration, support legislation designed to guarantee full opportunity for all, and protest legislation aimed at maintaining racial discrimination.

CONSTIPATED? New laxative discovery un-locks bowel blocks without gag, bloot or gripe

Constipation is caused by what doctors call a "thrifty" colon that, instead of retaining moisture as it should, does the opposite: robs the colon of so much moisture that its contents become dehydrated, so dry that they block the bowel; so shrunken that they fail to excite or stimulate the urge to purge that propels and expels waste from your body.

To regain normal regularity, the dry, shrunken, constipating contents of your colon which now block your bowel must be moistened. Second, bulk must be brought to your colon to S-T-R-E-T-C-H stimulate it to action; to a normal urge to purge.

And, of all laxatives, only COLONOID, the amazing new laxative discovery possesses COLONOID's great moisturizing capacity, plus COLONOID's stretch-stimulating bulk. So effective it relieves even chronic constipation overnight, COLONOID is yet so smooth, so gentle it has proved safe even for women in critical stages of pregnancy.

Superior to old style bulk, salt or drug laxatives, COLONOID neither gags, bloats nor grips; won't interfere with absorption of vitamins and other valuable food nutrients; in clinical tests, did not cause rash or other reactions. It's a physiological fact: Exercise tones your body! And COLONOID exercises your colon to tone it against constipation, overnight! Get COLONOID, in easy-to-take tablet form at any drug counter, today! Only 98c for the 60 tablet package, brings positive relief at less than 2c per tablet.

"My advice, sir—get De-Icer!"

It's in Standard Gasolines

... and at no extra cost to you! A car without De-Icer is a "sitting duck" for gas line freeze. When weather's cold outside, moisture can condense in the fuel system, freeze, and shut off the gas line. Engine stutters, even "conks out." That's gas line freeze. But it won't bother you ever when you use STANDARD WHITE CROWN Premium or RED CROWN Regular. Both now have De-Icer, Standard's ice-fighting sunshine additive blended in at the refinery. ## Taxpayers Should List Deductible Expenses If Total More Than Standard

By RUSSEL C. HARRINGTON
Commissioner of Internal Revenue
Written for United Press
WASHINGTON (UP)—May a taxpayer deduct from his income the $5 he gave to Hungarian refugee relief? May he deduct a political contribution?

Those are two of the kind of special questions which are popping up this year.

Everyone is entitled to at least the standard $600 deduction which allows you approximately 10 per cent of your income for deductible outlays, even if you spent less than that or nothing at all. If you claim the standard deduction, you cannot claim it for more than $1,000. In most cases it comes to less than that.

Taxpayers who file their return on the card form 1040A and those who figure their tax from the tax table in the official instructions take the standard deduction. It is automatically calculated in the tax these people owe.

Taxpayers who compute their own tax may take either a standard or an itemized deduction.

If your contributions and other deductible expenses come to more than the standard deduction allows, your best bet may be to list them all, in the spaces provided on Page 2 of Form 1040. Listing each deduction item-by-item removes you from the percentage and dollars limits of the standard deduction.

The rest of this article is devoted to deductions which may be claimed if you itemize your deductions. It may be worth your while to add up your deductible outlays on a separate sheet first, to see if they give you a bigger deduction than the standard allowance.

Contributions are deductible if they go to religious, charitable, educational, scientific or literary organizations, so long as the organization is not operated for personal profit and does not carry on propaganda or try to influence legislation.

This means contributions to qualified Hungarian relief groups, such as the American Red Cross and others, are deductible.

Contributions to the 1956 election campaign, to candidates or parties are not deductible.

Child Care: You are not permitted to deduct for babysitter fees when you go to the movies. Deductions for child care are designed primarily for mothers who are working or actively looking for work, or for a man who is divorced or legally separated or a widower.

Women and these eligible men may deduct up to $600 a year, if it costs that much to have someone look after the child while they are at work or seeking work.

Medical Expenses: Basically you are allowed to deduct medical and dental expenses if they run higher than 3 per cent of your income. You do not deduct that first 3 per cent portion, but you do deduct the amount above that. If you are 65 or older, you may deduct all your own medical expenses. There are ceilings in all cases.

You may deduct: Payments to physicians, surgeons, dentists, optometrists, qualified psychologists and Christian Science practitioners. Also the expenses of diagnosis, treatment or prevention of a disease; hospital bills, nursing, laboratory services; eyeglasses, hearing aids, drugs (any amount spent for drugs over 1 per cent of your income), medical and dental supplies (including false teeth and artificial limbs), ambulance hire and health insurance plans which cover the cost of medical care.

Note: If you receive payments from a health insurance plan, or are otherwise repaid for your medical or dental expenses, your deduction is reduced accordingly.

Storm Losses: Generally, the deduction you may claim for storm, flood or other casualty damage to your property is the difference between the value of your whole property immediately before the storm and immediately afterwards (before you clean it up). The loss you claim may not be greater than what you paid for the property.

Interest: The interest you pay on a mortgage or a personal loan or back taxes may be deducted. It is clearly designated and easily reported.

Taxes: As a general rule, you can deduct most state and local taxes imposed directly on you, such as income, real estate and personal property and sales taxes. You may not deduct: Federal sales or excise taxes, federal social security taxes, hunting or dog licenses, water taxes or auto inspection fees.

Let me repeat: You may not claim any of these deductible items unless you list all your deductions one-by-one; you may not claim them if you take the standard deduction.

Columbia Takes Scoring Lead of Major Colleges

NEW YORK — Columbia took over the national basketball scoring lead among major colleges today although Lions' star Chet (The Jet) Forte trails Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain in the race for individual honors.

Columbia gained the top rung while idle during the past week when West Virginia, last week's pacemaker, was held down in a 59-54 victory over Virginia Tech. Columbia's average remained at 87.1 points per game, while West Virginia dropped into second place at 85.9.

Kansas also was idle during the past week, so Chamberlain remained on top with a 30.6 points per game average in the individual competition and Forte was second with 29.7.

However, third-place Grady Wallace of South Carolina and fourth-place Jim Ashmore of Mississippi State each gained ground on the two leaders. Wallace sank 42 points against the Citadel Monday to boost his average to 29.4, and Ashmore scored 38 against Memphis St. to make his average 29.0.

The Oklahoma Aggies, who have won the national defense crown in 15 of the last 19 years, took over the top rung this week with an average of 53.1 points allowed per game. California dropped to second at 53.2.

The Aggies have missed out on the title for the past two years, as national champion San Francisco usurped the honor both times. Obviously, the Aggies think it's time to re-assess themselves.

State's Top Cage Teams Concentrated in Three Areas as Tournaments Near

SPRINGFIELD — The prep basketball season heads into its final month of regular season play today, and as Sweet Sixteen time draws near nine of the state's 15 top teams are concentrated in three tight little areas.

Always strong deep southern Illinois has Herrin's Tigers, ranked third in the state in the latest ratings by the United Press Sweet Sixteen coaches board, Pinckneyville's Panthers rated fourth, and the West Frankfort Redbirds rated ninth.

Around Peoria, Central is rated 8th, East Peoria 12th and the Pekin Chinks 14th.

The northwest also has three ranked teams, Rock Island 5th, Galesburg 7th and Rock Island Alleman 10th.

These nine teams all own impressive won-lost records, and it is striking to note that many of the defeats they have suffered have come at the hands of each other.

For example, Pekin's two losses have been to Peoria Central and East Peoria. The Chinks have won 11.

Central has a 12-2 record, with losses to East Peoria and Springfield. East Peoria is 12-2 with losses to Galesburg and Peoria Central.

Herrin has lost only once, by 1 point to Collinsville. The Tigers have 16 victories. Pinckneyville, with 17 victories, has lost to Herrin and Collinsville. West Frankfort, 14-4 for the season, has lost twice to Herrin, and once each to Pinckneyville and Benton.

Lane Proposes Rules to Help 'Weaker' Clubs

NEW YORK — Outspoken Frank Lane of the Cardinals said today the only answer to the Yankees' supremacy is baseball legislation which would help the "weak" catch up with the "strong."

"The way baseball's rules are set up now, where a club can keep title to a player seven years and still not give him a chance to play in the majors, a team like the Yankees stands to benefit most," Lane said.

"I'd like to see legislation passed that if a player has put in four years in the minors and then isn't kept on the major league roster of the club which owns title to him, then all the other clubs would have a chance to buy his contract."

Lane realizes his proposal might even hurt his own club, the Cardinals, right now since they have numerous players in their farm system, but he feels it would help everyone in baseball, the players included, in the long run.

"Some of the stronger clubs think sure, that would be swell when we're not going so good, but right now that we're doing okay we don't want it. What they fail to realize is that it would help them, too, some day in the future when maybe they weren't going so well."

Lane has proposed his idea in the past but hasn't been able to win over a majority of his brother baseball officials.

Keystone Coal Buyers Manual says electric utility consumption of coal set a new high in 1956 on a rise of 9.8 per cent to more than 154,000,000 tons, and predicts a 6.9 per cent expansion in 1957 to around 165,000,000 tons, another new high.

Dorrisville Wins Midget Tourney; Beats Galatia, 48-44

Dorrisville won the championship game of the Midget conference basketball tournament Thursday night, beating the host Galatia school 48-44.

In the consolation game Raleigh won from Broughton 33-24.

N. R. Gullie, Galatia principal and tournament manager, presented trophies to the first three winners following the title game and the conference travelling trophy was presented by Edgar Satterfield of Broughton, conference president, to both Galatia and Dorrisville, who tied for the league championship in regular season play.

Galatia will keep the trophy until the end of the school term and then it will be taken to Dorrisville to remain until the 1958 tournament.

Scoring in the championship game: Dorrisville—Lamb 25, R. Hutchinson 9, Cline 5, McCluskey 9; Galatia—Malone 2, Bond 7, Boyett 16, Sutter 13 and Riddle 6.

Sporting Goods Dealer Urges More Concentration on 'Minor' Sports

More concentration on the so-called "minor" sports which caused the United States to lose the unofficial 1956 Olympics team championship to Russia and liberalization of our definition of "amateur" are urged by the nation's retailers of sporting goods and sports associations.

These are two of a number of conclusions regarding the international games brought out through a survey conducted by The Sporting Goods Dealer, national business magazine published at St. Louis. The results appear in the January issue of the publication.

Emphasis on the "minor" events—such as gymnastics, wrestling, fencing, cycling, canoeing, field hockey and soccer—is favored by 76 per cent of the retailers surveyed. The remaining 24 per cent believe that American sports are diversified enough now and state the Olympics should be placed back in perspective as a series of events pitting individuals against each other as individuals, not as a team.

Failure is Deplorable

Over-all, the retailers of sports equipment feel that America's failure in the various shooting events was the most deplorable development of all, because of our pride as a nation of outdoorsmen. Actually, the U. S. did not even enter a team in the trapshooting events, largely because its best marksmen are classified as professionals. They traditionally compete for cash prizes, which rarely even pay for the ammunition used.

Another difficulty in shooting, according to The Dealer, is that Europeans, and especially Russians, are able to devote themselves to extensive training without expense. The magazine quotes F. C. Daniel, secretary of the National Rifle Association, as follows:

"Vassili Borissov, the Russian who won the 300-meter free rifle championship, has shot in practice with the same coach for the last five years and shoots approximately five hours every day. I know of no civilian sportsman in the United States who could conceivably hope to match this."

Need Close Co-Operation

The only solution, Daniel states, is closer co-operation between the manufacturers of firearms, the National Rifle Association, the Armed Services and Congress in sponsoring and financing marksmanship programs.

The Dealer also quotes Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union, as flatly rejecting the idea there are any "minor" sports in the Olympics.

He states:

"To India and others nations field hockey is the most important of all Olympic events. France, Italy, Holland and Switzerland probably consider cycling as tops. Soccer is played universally, and to many countries this is the blue ribbon event, just as we, in the United States, place track and field first."

Number One Problem

However, the problem of defining an amateur is cited by most retailers as America's No. 1 Olympic problem in view of Russia's out-and-out subsidization of athletes and the far less restrictive attitudes in most other countries.

One Southwestern retailer told The Dealer:

"The AAU had better realize that our athletes need more help. The AAU should wake up to the fact that these are the 1950s, not the 1850s. Athletes should be able to accept help or even earn money through endorsements, public appearances, etc., without being ruined by arbitrary rulings. Either lift the rules or bring them up to date."

A Massachusetts retailer commented:

"If we intend to take the Olympics seriously as presently set up, we had better teach our athletes to eat gold medals. Otherwise, put in the pros and bury the opposition."

Robinson-Fullmer Return Match Set for April 24

CHICAGO — Sugar Ray Robinson, aging but stubborn, said he planned to "correct" some self-admitted mistakes in the fight in which he lost the middleweight title to Gene Fullmer and the correcting would be done at Fullmer's expense.

Sugar Ray's outline of his plans for Fullmer followed an announcement Thursday by James D. Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, that the two would meet April 24 in the Chicago Stadium.

Norris said he had arranged the bout, which will give Robinson a chance to take the middleweight title for the fourth time, in a telephone talk with Fullmer's manager, Marv Jensen, at the champion's home in West Jordan, Utah.

In the return match, Fullmer and Robinson each will get 30 per cent of the net gate, plus receipts from radio and television broadcasts on the regular Wednesday night fight program. It was estimated that the TV fee would reach about $100,000.

"I wonder," said Alex from behind his mask, "if Matt had the lab make those sensitivity tests I asked for. I have a good idea I won't welcome an allergic reaction after this session."

Sue's swathed head gestured to the circulating, who mopped the surgeon's perspiring brow and throat. "All made, Doctor!" she said brightly.

"You make 'em yourself?" Sue's face was covered by the wide gauze mask, and her turban-cap. But, also, the light above the table was very good, and Alex knew that she flushed.

Alex rose, formally, and pushed the second chair toward her. "Sit down, Doctor. Would you like a cigarette?"

"No! Well—maybe. Look, Alex—"

"As I think you know, I have a few things to say to you." He held the match in steady fingers, and she leaned toward it.

"Okay," she agreed, leaning back. "I know you're going to lecture me for doing Matt's work."

"For doing it so constantly, and without speaking a few select words to him on the subject."

"How do you know?"

"Matt's lack of reaction doesn't leave much doubt as to whether or not they have been said."

"Well, maybe," Sue agreed. "But speaking of things one shouldn't do, Alex, you've let Cass take on an awful lot for you, haven't you?"

He frowned. Started to speak, and flushed. "I was going to say that she does no more than she wants to."

"I've got a suggestion," Sue assured him. "Take the case away from your wife. Turn Aunt Cordy over to Lenoire Black. She's happy with her; does everything that woman asks of her. It would work, Alex."

"Yes," he agreed. "It might work. I think it would work fine—until the day comes when Lenoire runs off with Matt." He spoke quietly, but his eyes held to Sue's face.

She was instantly angered; he had expected that. Hot color flared into her thin cheeks, her eyes blazed, and her hands hooked into claws. She tried to speak, didn't make it, and tried again.

"I am Dr. Knapp's wife," said Sue with dignity.

"Not if she can take your place. Oh, Sue, I don't mean to hurt you. But you should be looking to your defenses. People here in town admire Lenoire, but a lot of us think you're pretty wonderful, too, my dear. Not a saint, perhaps, but wonderful."

She went out; she went back to work—and, that afternoon, she went home. Alex had given her things to think about. Plenty of things. A lot of them may have been based on mistaken conclusions, but one thing Sue knew for herself. Matt was moody, and restless.

Sue made her big endeavor on June 15, which was the Matthias Knapp wedding anniversary. Their eleventh. It seemed the proper time and occasion to reach out a wife's hand; even an innocent husband would recognize the importance of the day, and appreciate her small celebration.

She laid her plans carefully. Carefully she arranged a small, intimate setting for dinner that night. The food was selected with Matt's tastes in mind, prepared for an instant appeal to him.

Small Bill looked up at her, entranced. "Mommie, pretty!" he declared.

It was another hour before Matt came home. But then he surprised Sue by bringing her a gift, a small box wrapped and tied in white. "For the bride," he said gallantly, kissing her.

Sue laughed hysterically, and tore at the wrappings of her gift. The box contained a gold bracelet; from it dangled a half dozen little heart-shaped charms.

He might be a heel, Sue was thinking—and was, certainly, at times—but who could possibly be more entrancing than this tall, thin, brown-haired man who now smiled at her from behind his dark-rrimmed glasses? "Oh, Matt . . .," she said inadequately.

Cleophas served dinner, and they talked of various matters. But Sue could not bring herself to speak of the things she so desperately wanted to know. She could not talk, even casually, about Lenoire Black, nor ask, did Matt know her? Instead she chattered, endlessly, about the hospital; she said how much more work they were doing now than they had used to do—even in the time of Matt's father—and certainly during Matt's absence while in Service.

"I can't see your father doing what you did for Genevieve Jones, Matt! The entire handling of her case has been masterly. And you did it."

"Oh, now, Sue—"

"I know. You have to pretend it's all in a day's work. But really, Matt—why, I can cite a dozen other cases . . ."

She did cite them, including several where she had carried a good part of the medical load. People all over town, she declared, were praising him just as they had used to praise his father.

For the past, word-flooded hour, Matt had been bored. Now— "You're too capable a doctor, yourself, Susan," he drawled, "to buy that pound of feathers!"

Matt had been leaning back in his chair, smoking and watching her. Now, when her frantically gay and earnest voice had come to silence, he pulled himself to his feet and left the house.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

59th DISTRICT

By Representative

GORDON E. KERR

The response to the first report of this session was exceptionally good. Because of the big job of reorganization the House of Representatives it was necessary to recess for almost two weeks. We are again in session and will soon get down to the serious business of studying and passing laws.

REACTION TO GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE—The reaction of the legislators to the Governor's message is very much mixed. Some members, who sincerely have a desire to go along with the Governor's program openly declare that they cannot support him in all his proposals. Some say they will fight his program and some says it makes no difference.

TAXATION—The Governor tells us that he will oppose any increase in taxes, but leaves the door open for an increase if marked for education and welfare only. After discussing with leaders it looks like a sales tax increase, whether we like it or not. There is too much opposition to a state income tax for passage. Any tax increase will be held as low as possible.

EDUCATION—Any increased aid to education for our local schools or, our Universities will force an increase in some form of tax. For the schools to maintain their present standards will call for an increase in State aid or higher local taxes. Education needs will almost force a tax increase.

HIGHWAY SAFETY—The Governor has called for more legislation in regard to safety on the highways. He will fight for a speed limit and more severe penalties, with the state police doubled to enforce the law. He is asking for 600 more police, but may settle for less.

FISCAL REFORM—The Governor has asked that the Auditor and Treasurer be appointed by and responsible to the Governor. This request has already met opposition from members of both parties. We all think, just what would have happened this past year if a certain State official had been Governor and the Auditor and Treasurer, were responsible to him. This proposal is dangerous and could—er—well some day lead to another major scandal in our State government.

JUDICIAL REFORM—The Governor will urge a reform of the Courts and I will support it, if the selection of the judges are left in the hands of the people. Judicial reform was the most popular subject in my mail and comments after the last report. I will work and support an amendment as follows: "A non-partisan primary to be held and nominate twice the number of judges to be elected. Then a special judges election will be held, thus determining who will be the judge or judges. With an amendment of this type Judicial reform can be a reality."

18 YEAR OLD'S VOTING—The Governor is asking for legislation that will permit 18 year old's to have full voting rights. Although this has failed in past sessions I believe the chances of passage is good. This also will be a change in the constitution and the people of the State will vote on it.

RECREATIONAL AREAS IN THIS DISTRICT—The Governor has indicated that a number of lakes and recreational areas will be built and improved in the next two years. More money will be in the budget than ever before for our State Parks.

LOBBYIST—The word lobbyist to some people sounds bad, but that is not true. These people play an important part in the session. Last session 2158 Bills were introduced in the Legislature. This session with 31 additional members a much larger amount will be introduced. It is absolutely impossible for the members to study and analyze each Bill. These lobbyists can help analyze the legislation they are interested in. Nearly every organization in the State have lobbyists in Springfield during the Session. Honest presentation of facts by this group are welcomed by most members.

Safety note—Dim your lights at night when driving behind a car or truck. It will prevent a glare in the rear view mirror and will help promote safety. It is also a courtesy.

Next report—Bill that have been introduced.

Ladd in Action

ALAN LADD

America's foremost action star, Alan Ladd, returns to the screen in the action packed thriller "The Big Land." The production from Warner Bros., opens Sunday at the Orpheum theatre for its premier showing.

Moral: Don't Ever Hit a Utility Pole

OGDENSBURG, N. Y. — A local motorist found out that hitting a utility pole can be pretty expensive.

Darrell Mills received an itemized bill for $237.50 from the city water department after shearing off one of its poles.

The damages included: $175 for a new pole, $15 for power the department purchased, $4.50 for operation of a gasoline motor during the interruption of electric service, $31.20 for services of a pumping station attendant, $12.05 to an electrician.

And to make matters worse, Mills paid a $25 fine after pleading guilty to speeding.
